ABC Music & Me

Perhaps you're wondering

How can music prepare my child for Nursery School

During the preschool years, children learn to "tune out" much of the visual, auditory, and physical stimulus they encounter. Positive experiences with music teach children to "tune in" - practicing focused attention and discriminating sounds.

Why is music such a great teaching tool?

Music stimulates the brain, forging neural pathways in all domains of learning: cognitive, emotional, social, and physical. Your child's entire brain is involved when he or she participates in music and movement activities.

Will this help my child learn music?

ABC Music & me provides experiences that build foundational music skills that will serve your child no matter what level of music education he or she is involved in later, be it piano lessons, singing in a choir, or enjoying a concert from the audience.
